1 About this Target Market Determination

1.1 Introduction

This target market determination (“TMD”) details a description of the likely objectives, financial situation and needs of customers that require a payment option to spread the cost of purchases into multiple repayments over time, while attracting no interest costs (“Payment Plan”).

It also provides information on:

- Who the product is and is not suitable for
- How the product will be distributed to our customers;
- How often we will review this TMD and when the next review will be;
- The events and circumstances that could mean we need to review whether this TMD is still appropriate; and
- The information we would need in order to decide that this TMD is no longer appropriate.

This TMD is required under section 994B of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth). This document is not intended to provide financial advice. It forms part of FlipPay’s design and distribution framework for the product. Consumers must refer to the Customer Terms and Conditions, their application and any other information which outline the relevant terms and conditions of the product when making a decision about this product.

1.2 Product to which this Target Market Determination applies

FlipPay provides customers an instalment payment plan for transactions up to $2,000. This product is available to a retail consumer base and enables consumers make purchases followed by a series of interest free repayments over time.

FlipPay partners with platforms and merchants to provide a white-label payment plan product. The product requires all purchases to be paid off in recurring interest free instalments, up to 60 days. We do not enable customers to have multiple payment plans with the same merchant at the same time.

The product suitability has been designed for customers within specific industries.
